THE NIGHT WINDOW

Co-production – Short-film development pitch

Hook: A contained encounter could be staged locally, but no cross-border qualification is assumed.

Logline: Before midnight, a repair-kiosk owner must choose between her lease deposit and correcting a battery record that could save a courier cooperative from paying for her mistake.

The fictional city is unnamed; adaptation of signage and work detail is possible only if the economic pressures stay coherent. Two performers and a controlled kiosk leave creative room for local collaborators. There is no partner, treaty analysis, jurisdiction, incentive or nationality qualification yet. A co-production may add administration disproportionate to a short.

Proposed next step: First test whether collaboration supplies essential creative capability rather than a financing label.

Status and scope: Original short, revised host-agent demonstration draft. No cast, finance, partners or distribution attached. Single-agent self-review; no independent endorsement. Local draft only, unsent. This small demo does not establish feature-quality guarantees.
