THE NIGHT WINDOW

Streamer – Short-film development pitch

Hook: A compact two-hander whose tension comes from a form someone will not sign.

Logline: Before midnight, a repair-kiosk owner must choose between her lease deposit and correcting a battery record that could save a courier cooperative from paying for her mistake.

Designed for approximately 8–12 minutes, not a feature or series engine. The escalating evidence and deadline can hold short-form attention without a cliffhanger. The opening establishes the money; the ending spends it and misses the route. No platform engagement, acquisition interest or audience metrics are claimed.

Proposed next step: Consider later as a curated short if a finished cut fits actual programming needs.

Status and scope: Original short, revised host-agent demonstration draft. No cast, finance, partners or distribution attached. Single-agent self-review; no independent endorsement. Local draft only, unsent. This small demo does not establish feature-quality guarantees.