THE LEDGER ROOM

Awards Discussion Pitch

Appropriate scope There is no campaign or awards prediction. This is a draft craft brief for a possible future completed film. Eligibility and release rules would need verification for any named program.

Demonstrable opportunities Clara's permanent-key memory is specific without proving a convenient chronology. Jory's final normal-return option is genuinely available. Ina's sustained refusal denies the protagonists a useful witness. These are performance and ensemble opportunities, not evidence of a future nomination.

Craft proposition Production design must make an archive functional; sound follows gates, tape, wheels and keys; editing must preserve legibility without turning every document into an insert. The final table steadied by two people lets the film close on action and divergent accounts.

Next step Make the film work. Only after actual reception and resources exist should a producer consider a proportionate campaign with truthful credits and claims. No artistic prize, critical response, eligibility or professional endorsement is promised in this package.
