THE LEDGER ROOM

Public Funder Pitch

Cultural proposition The story examines access to records and the gap between an administratively closed account and a person's unresolved claim. It also lets a former resident decline participation. Cultural value depends on how the film handles disagreement, not on a claim to deliver a policy result.

Possible public benefit If funded and produced, accessible screenings and a carefully moderated conversation could make the work available beyond a commercial run. Archive or labor consultation should be compensated and neither quoted nor presented as endorsement without separate consent.

Eligibility unresolved No jurisdiction, scheme, current criteria, deadlines, match-funding terms or applicant qualification has been verified. The screenplay is original fiction and AI-authored demonstration material; any application must describe its authorship and rights status accurately under the actual scheme.

Next step Determine applicant, production plan, budget, rights and access commitments before considering a submission. No award, public benefit outcome or official support is promised. These are proposed activities requiring a real partner and resources.
