THE LEDGER ROOM

Exhibitor Pitch

The theatrical experience A room full of viewers can feel a small decision together: whether a worker presses the status that will secure her job while closing an unresolved incident. The film builds attention through faces listening, practical labor and dry release rather than spectacle.

Audience and programming Potential audience includes adult viewers of character-led social and workplace drama. A future event screening could pair the film with a conversation about records, consent or conditional employment. That is an untested programming proposition, not evidence of advance demand.

What is not yet available There is no finished film, measured runtime, certification, booking plan, distributor, screening format or verified audience research. Current PDF pages are a development measure and do not establish a theatrical running time.

Next step Assess an eventual finished film and accurate release materials, then consider local fit, access needs and discussion partners. No box-office result, turnout, endorsement or release date is promised by this draft screenplay package.
