THE LEDGER ROOM

Producer Pitch

The assembly problem This film needs a producer who can preserve an uncomfortable ending while making the custody pursuit easy to follow. A revised script exists; it is not a finished production package. No attached names or market validation are implied.

Development priorities Read S10,S22,S27,S48 and the aftermath as a chain: avoidance, dissent, conditional partnership, available sacrifice and material consequence. Test whether procedural detail is serving those changes. The principal remaining risk is a shared polished paperwork idiom and runtime that needs performance testing.

Practical route Survey one depot complex and one service-office complex before seeking six unrelated sites. Test the gate turn, carton capacity, copying/insert workflow and night access. Build a real schedule, line budget and document-continuity plan. Then form a verified director and casting shortlist.

Proposed next step A script meeting with specific scene notes and a feasibility brief. Community or archive consultation should be paid and optional, not treated as endorsement. No outreach has been sent and no financing or public-funding qualification is claimed.
